

We understand that a complete withdrawal from a semester is sometimes unavoidable. However, we want you to be aware that a complete withdrawal can also carry some potentially serious consequences, including but not limited to the following:

---

Students currently on Academic Probation

- } A complete withdrawal after the 5th week of a semester results in an immediate suspension for the next semester.

Athletes

- } A complete withdrawal from a semester will seriously affect your ability to remain eligible to participate in varsity athletics.

Dependent Students

- } A complete withdrawal from a semester may mean that you are no longer eligible to be carried on a parent/guardian insurance policy.

Students receiving Financial Aid

- } A complete withdrawal from a semester can end loan deferments.
- } A complete withdrawal from a semester can make you ineligible for grants and scholarships that require a minimum number of earned hours for renewal.
- } A complete withdrawal from a semester can affect your Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) for financial aid.

Graduate Students

- } If you were admitted on Provisional Status, a complete withdrawal will affect your ability to move to normal status at the end of the probationary period, and may result in academic dismissal.

International Students

- } A complete withdrawal from a semester can affect your eligibility to remain in the U.S.
- } Your SEVIS record must be updated immediately, alerting the Department of Homeland Security.

Residence Hall Students

- } A complete withdrawal from a semester usually means that, except for a documented medical emergency, you will receive no refund for housing.
- } Meals are prorated from the date that you officially check out of the residence hall.

Veterans using Veterans Administration State or Federal Benefits

- } A complete withdrawal from a semester can prompt the VA to bill you for the funds it disbursed on your behalf.
- } A complete withdrawal from a semester can cause problems with Tuition Assistance contracts.