Career and Life in the US Secret Service: History and Origins of the Field

featuring James Kaiser, Deputy Assistant Director, US Secret Service, retired

Wednesday, February 4 | 2:00 p.m.
Blue Gray Room, Student Center
or via Zoom

James Kaiser is a retired senior federal law enforcement and national security leader who last served as Deputy Assistant Director of the US Secret Service. He began his public service career as a Naval officer and later served in the Naval Criminal Investigative Service before joining the Secret Service. Over a 28-year career, he held numerous leadership roles and served as the Secret Service's executive liaison to the Department of Homeland Security. Kaiser helped develop the agency's Major Events Division, coordinated multiple National Special Security Events, served as Protective Detail Leader for John Edwards, and led the Emergency Operations and Presidential Succession programs.
